All products made in computerised ovens

Duratank has invested in state-of-the-art machinery to manufacture all our products. In order for your tank to be a tank that will last a lifetime, it requires cooking at a consistent and timed cooking cycle which is possible at Duratank with our computerised ovens, our processes cannot be replicated by any other poly tank manufacturer in the Northern Territory.

Strong and Durable by Design

Duratanks have been designed with structural integrity and longevity in mind, meaning our walls have been carefully crafted to provide ribbed side walls, which much like corrugated roof sheeting provide strength in the curved radius's. Our geometric lids are angled to provide structural toughness which results in a self-supporting lid, this structure paired with the moulded in lifting lugs ensures that your tank can be moved time and time again.

Australian Standard Certified

Duratank is the only Northern Territory Poly Tank Manufacturer compliant with the Australian Standard AS4766. This means that our products undergo stringent quality testing ensuring that your tank:

- Has the correct thickness in the correct places
- Has been produced with Australian Made Tank Grade AS4766 Plastic
- Has been cooked correctly ensuring that your tank can withstand harsh weather environments as well as snap changes in weather

Poly Fused and Welded outlets

All Duratank Outlets are Poly Fused and Welded to ensure your tank won't split at its outlet, this is carried out through a two-part process where fusion welding is carried out to the full thickness of your tank and bonded with the outlet fitting ensuring a welded seam is created from the inside to out. Just for extra measure Duratank then poly weld the outside of your fitting to provide extra strength.
